Senior Banquet And Party This Week

Dinner on March 20 at Hotel Utica and Reception March 21

On Saturday night, March 21, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Ferry will entertain the senior class and the faculty at their annual reception in honor of the graduating class. The type of entertainment to be offered cannot be revealed before the reception is held.

For the past two years skits have been presented concerning college life with the members of the faculty serving as actors. Such entertainment was provided at the first reception tendered to the seniors by the President, but in the intervening years it was decided to present some professional singer or musician. The skits by the faculty are, of course. of more immediate interest to the undergraduates, but if presented year after year tend to become monotonous for the faculty.

This Friday evening, March 20, at seven o'clock, the much- discussed senior banquet will be held in the English Room of the Hotel Utica. A very elaborate program, which is being kept strictly secret, has been planned by the committee in charge to climax the meal and to insure the success of the occasion. Tickets for the banquet, at $1.25 per head, may be bought from any Interfraternity Council member; all thise who have not yet purchased theirs are urged to do so immediately. No reservations will be made without cash paid in advance, and none will be made after Thursday night.

About eighty-five Hamilton students are expected to attend this banquet, the first senior banquet to be held in almost twenty years. But now that the custom has once again been introduced through the efforts of Messrs. Connor and Eldridge, of the class of '36, it is hoped that it will become another of Hamilton's many traditions for the graduating class to get together some time during the second semester for an evening of informal entertainment, a last gathering of the senior class as such before commencement.

Charlatans Plan Production of War Drama

Immediately after the spring recess, or as soon as two consecutive nights can be obtained, the Charlatans will put on their annual early-spring play, in the form of a two-night performance of the former Broadway success, "Journey's End." No definite dates have yet been set for the performances, but Fendall W. Yerxa, president of the dramatic group, states that the plays will be presented as soon after the spring recess as possible.

The play has been in rehearsal for several weeks, the cast gathering usually four or five times a week to run through the script and the action. Two dress rehearsals will be held immediately before the formal presentations, as is the usual custom of the club.

"Journey's End" met with great success on Broadway, where it ran over a stretch of more than a year, and many well-known and recognized critics for magazines and newspapers gave it excellent write-ups. The play has for its theme one of war sacrifice, and the entire action takes place in a dug-out at or near the battle lines.

Professors Rudd and Fancher will direct the play.

The cast:

Captain Hardy	Bielby
Lieut. Osborne	Yerxa
Private Mason	J. Bates
Captain Stanhope	Kelsey
Lieut. Raleigh	Henninger
Lieut. Hibbert	Hoch

Phelps and Smith Chosen To Head New "Life" Staff

Rearick Is Elected The Handbook Editor At Hill Pi Delt Meeting

C. Russell Phelps '37 of Rochester and Carlos D. Smith '37 of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, were elected Editor-in-chief and Managing Editor respectively of Hamilton Life for the year 1936-37 at a meeting of Pi Delta Epsilon Sunday afternoon in the offices of Hamilton Life. The retiring editors, Messrs Conley and Eldridge, turn over their duties to the new staff with the next issue, which appears April 14.

Allan C. Rearick of Summit, N. J., '37 was elected editor of the Freshman Handbook since he stood third in the competition. The following men in the class of '37 wer elected associate editors of Life: John M. Tufts of Verona, N. J.; Hiram J. Evans of Granville; William B. Clark jr., of Evanston, Ill.; and Louis B. Greenbaum of New York City.

The selection was based upon competition, which began last April. Most emphasis was placed upon each man's competitive issue, which was marked and graded and then checked with the printer's score card. Other things considered in the selection were the man's faithfulness, his ability, his attitude toward his work, his proof reading test, and the amount of extra work he handed in during the year in the way of editorials, news stories or features.

Action was also taken at the meeting of Pi Delta Epsilon which combined the two offices of advertising manager and subscription manager on Hamilton Life into one to be called business manager. After an experiment of some two years, it was felt that a certain co-operation and coordination when the position was split was lacking, which should be present. Under the new set-up, the editors are to help the business manager in keeping the books.

A competition will be held between Robert C. Barry '37 and Harold M. Esty jr. '37, the two highest men in the competition for business staff of Life in their sophomore year. As soon as the competition is over, the members of Pi Delta Epsilon will elect the Business Manager for 1936-37.

Meredith S. Conley, president, appointed a committee consisting of Rudyard E. Eldridge, Norman W. Howard, W. Herrick Chapman, and himself to investigate the suggestion of Eldridge that action be taken by Pi Delt and the Executive Council to abolish the freshman handbook, the student directory in its present form, and the blotter. Eldridge suggested that a scheme be worked out whereby a blanket advertising plan be put into effect. This would give the advertisers a special rate if they advertised in all three Hill publications and would necessitate only one man calling on them and the signing of one contract. If the advertiser wanted to advertise in only one publication, the rate

Prof. Bonham Named As Advisor For Researchers

Dr. Milledge L. Bonham, Jr., head of the history department at Hamilton College, is a member of an advisory committee of leading historians of New York State cooperating and assisting in the survey being conducted by the Works Progress Administration.

A staff of 150 researchers taken from the relief rolls and including school teachers, lawyers, journalists and others are engaged in an inventory of the records and preparation of the index.

The work will include descriptions and locations of various court records, public papers, deeds, etc., their general condition and other pertinent information.

Voices of Men Recorded at Amherst

Public Speaking Department Uses Discs To Note Improvement

Following the example of Columbia and Harvard, the Public Speaking Department of Amherst College has bought an electrograph recording device, enabling students to listen to their own first stammering attempts at public speaking. With the aid of this invention 757 speeches have been recorded by members of the freshman class.

The introduction of recording devices into the teaching of the forensic art has been hailed as one of the best ways to eliminate tone and pronounciation defects. Amherst's adoption of the machine, which enables the student to listen to his own speech, is designed, according to Professor S. L. Garrison, head of the Public Speaking Department, to make the student voice conscious and help in remedying defects in voice control. At the end of the year, the recorded speeches are played so that each pupil may discover what progress he has made.

While several colleges in the East have used the voice recording machines, in none is such an extensive program carried on as at Amherst. Dartmouth, Brown, Smith and Mount Holyoke require each freshman to record two speeches each year. The freshmen

Hamilton Team Debates at Albany

Speaking before a large audience Friday evening, March 13, the Hamilton College debate team upheld the negative of the question, "Resolved: that Franklin Delano Roosevelt should be re-elected President of the United States." The College of Saint Rose debate team of Albany, where the debate was held, took the affirmative of the proposition. The Saint Rose debate team is coached by John J. Walsh '33, who is a student at the Albany Law School and has some classes in constitutional law at St. Rose College. Mr. James T. Taaffe presided.

The Saint Rose team, composed of Mary Elizabeth Miller '36 and Mary Daly '37 had three main issues. In their advance speeches they said that the NRA and the AAA had increased business investments, and sought to prove that such a policy should become a permanent part of our government's program. They devoted much time to recounting the story of the bank holiday which President Roosevelt proclaimed only

Two-Day A.S.U. Conference Attended By 70 Delegates Pledged Against War

Joseph Lash Presents ASU Plan In Interview for "Life"

Small, earnest Joseph P. Lash, Executive Secretary of the American Student Union, travelled up from New York City last Saturday on the last eleven dollars in cash in the national office in order to speak to the Regional Conference.

Lash, who has become well-known because of his recent ejection from the Senate hearing, obtained a master's degree from CCNY in 1931, and another from Columbia in 1932. Since then, he has been extremely active in student movements, having been appointed to his present post last year.

Quiet and unassuming, Joe admitted being a Socialist. When asked, however, if he thought it for the best interests of the A. S. U. to have any official affiliation between the student organization and the Leftiest political parties, he firmly said, "No." Mr. Lash is not an active member of the party, devoting his full time to the organization and administration of the American Student Union.

He explained his unfortunate experience at the Nunan Bill hearing in this manner,

"I was trying to show Senator Nunan the significance of the Oxford Oath in relation to the Bill itself. He had asked the other speakers if they were in favor of the Oath. There is, you know, a distinct connection between the Oath and the A. S. U. program—it was this that I was trying to clear up, when Senator Feld, the chairfan, interrupted with what I thought was a very bad play on words."

It seems that Feld had pounced upon Lash when Lash asserted that the A. S. U. would fight for their principles. Said the Senator,

"But I thought you were against fighting?"

Joe retaliated, with his usual cleverness, that "that pun is unworthy of your high position as Senator."

That was too much for the quick-witted chairman. He commanded Joe to leave the floor, Lash asking to be heard for just a moment. He was firmly refused, however, and it took a Senate attache to lead the earnestly pleading Lash from the floor.

Joe recounted this experience and commented silently by shrugging his shoulders.

He is in favor of the student strike as a method of showing the men at Washington that there is an active spirit opposed to any declaration or preparation for war.'

Joe became practical.

"The strike is a dress rehearsal of what we shall do if and when war is declared. It can be an actual tool to combat the increase of jingoism and propaganda that

Council Election At Friday Chapel

Preliminary elections of members to the 1936-37 Executive Council of the Undergraduate Association will take place immediately after the chapel service Friday morning, it was decided at a meeting of the Executive Council last evening. Following the same procedure as was inaugurated last year, two chapels will be required to complete the election.

Two members of the junior class, two of the sophomore, and one of the freshmen are to be selected. The juniors elected will serve with Harry Massoth and Edwin F. Gillette, present members, during their senior year. The tenure of the sophomores chosen is for two years and for the freshman, one year.

Each fraternity is entitled to place in nomination the name of one man from each of the three lower classes. The neutral body may endorse several candidates by the petition system used last year. In this connection, Warren R. Montgomery, president of the Council, urges that the names of the nominees be submitted to him immediately so the ballots can be printed by Friday morning.

The four juniors, the four sophomores, and the three freshmen polling the highest tally in Friday's election will appear on the final ballot, which will be taken Monday after Chapel. Monday's election will be conducted by the preferential system.

The present Executive Council is made up of the following six men who were elected last March: Warren R. Montgomery '36, Ira D. LeFevre '36, John H. Connor '36, Harry Massoth '37, Edwin F. Gillette '37, and Myron E. Carmer '38.

Student Aid Fund Started on Hill By Church

Students were surprised, in this Sunday's chapel exercises, to hear that the collection was to be used for the purpose of supporting a student aid fund. This new use of the collection is a result of a meeting of the College church's committee in charge of the disposal of collection funds. The committee, which is made up of Drs. Hess and Moore, and the undergraduates William Soper and John Henniger, gathered last Friday at Sigma Phi Place. William Soper proposed the plan, which is that a certain sum of College church money be donated to needy Hamilton students through the medium of the Administration. The selection of recipients is to be left entirely to the discretion of President Ferry. Some future collections will be used to complete the fund.

No formal application is to be made for the use of the money, but the neediest students are to be selected by the President.

Resolutions on War And U. S. Youth Act Passed by Conference

The first Upstate Regional Conference of the American Student Union, attended by seventy delegates from six colleges, two collegiate centers, and one high school, was held this week-end on the Hamilton campus.

The gathering, sponsored by the local Hamilton chapter of the A.S.U., was the first attempt of its kind in unifying the numerous individual groups on the New York State college campuses. The highlights of the conference were speeches by Joseph P. Lash, Executive Secretary of the A.S.U., and Cyril Berger, A.S.U. Field Secretary. It was Mr. Lash who was expelled from the recent Senate hearing at Albany on the Nunan Bill for commenting upon a Senator's poor taste in humor.

The conference was convened on Saturday afternoon, at 4:15, by Daniel Vandermeulen '36, who was then elected chairman for the session. Reports from each chapter were given by representative delegates, Gardiner Clark '39 speaking for Hamilton. Every speaker commented upon the obvious inertia of the student bodies concerning current problems. The reports from Alfred University, Colgate, Cornell, Skidmore, and Syracuse all bemoaned the fact that the students were guilty of a bored attitude.

The evening meeting was devoted to Mr. Lash's invigorating speech, in which he explained the Oxford Pledge and its meaning to the inquiring delegates.

"The Oxford Pledge," said Lash, "is merely the personal equivalent of the Kellogg Pact. It is a sign—not of denouncement of country—but rather of love of country."

Mr. Lash ridiculed the possibilities of a Japanese invasion.

"A billion-dollar war appropriation is not an appropriation for defence," said the speaker. "A 35,000 ton battleship, as any sailor will tell you, is a long-range cruiser, designed for far Pacific work,

Spring Athletic Teams Begin Workouts

The baseball team began getting into shape for the coming season recently, with warm-up workouts for the batterymen being held in the gymnasium. The team expects a fairly hard season, and with only five lettermen returning, will depend a great deal on the quality of the reserve material of last year, and the members of last year's freshman team.

Edward L. Kellog '36 and John B. Betts '36 are expected to be the mainstays of the pitching staff, having had two years of varsity experience. Wesley VanLoan '37, Frank J. Clark '36 and Harold E. Fowler '38, complete the pitching staff. With the loss of John W. Bicknell as regular catcher, the berth will probably be filled by Arthur A. Darrigrand '37, who was reserve catcher last year, or by Gerald I. Button or Winant Sidle, both '38, who were the catchers on the freshman team last year.

With an eye to next year's football season, Coach Arthur R. Winters is conducting a short session of football practice this spring to which 30 candidates have been reporting. This period is to last for two weeks, there being two practices last week and two this week. The spring practice would last longer were it not for the fact that too many of the football men are engaged in other activities during the spring.

The purpose of holding a spring practice in football is to get the men familiar with the basic formations and plays which will be used by the team in the fall. It is hoped that by doing this much time will be saved in the prepara-

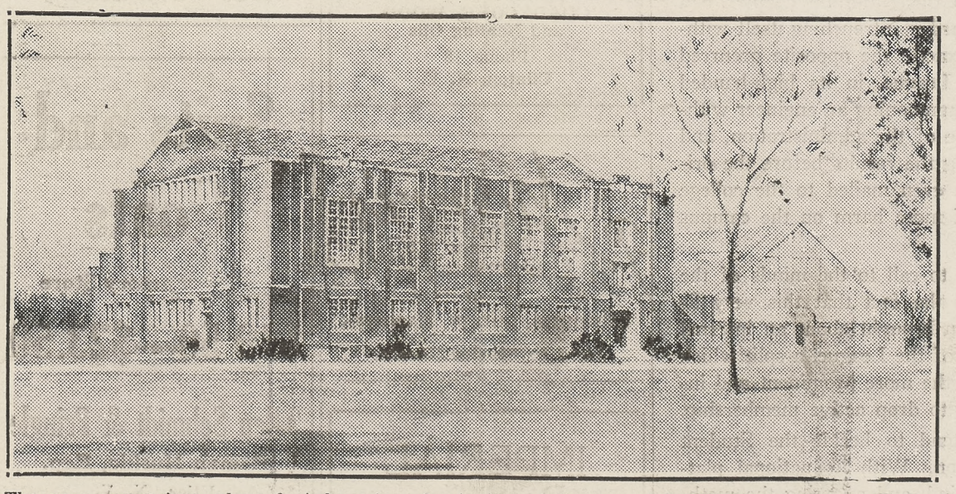
Architect's Drawing of New Hamilton College Gymnasium



The new gymnasium, plans for which were approved by the Trustees in the fall of 1931, will be constructed in the space between the Russell Sage Hockey Building and the Chemistry Building on the new quadrangle. There will be two entrances to the gym from the athletic field as well as a passageway from the Hockey Building.

The architect's drawing shown above is a front view of the proposed gymnasium showing the hockey building on one side.

Last year and undergraduate gym building committee was formed on the campus and collected some $377 towards this building. A new committee has been formed this year consisiting of Harry E. Goss, Willard P. Soper, Gerald N. LaGrange, John M. Tufts, Fendall W. Yerxa, Donald F. Lewis, Allan C. Rearick, John C. Carmer, Rudyard E. Eldridge, and Meredith S. Conley to start a new campaign for funds this semester.

Harry G. Kimball of New York City has been appointed chairman of the Trustee Gym Committee to work with the committee of New York Alumni on the gym.

AVE ATQUE VALE

With LIFE's presses now but a muffled throb in our editorial ears, the editors of Hamilton's news weekly, upon whom have been heaped such an abundance of scorn, abuse, and criticism, with this issue make our humble bow to campus journalism. We are but glad to pick up what few scattered laurel leaves are to be found, and to deliver, somewhat battered perhaps, Hamilton LIFE to its new makers-of-destiny, Messieurs Phelps and Smith.

It would be asking too much to expect that we should not indulge in a modicum of egoistic back-slapping as we make our exit; certainly self-praise is preferable to none at all. Modesty will be, however, the theme song of our undramatic curtain call, since we shall be the first to admit that our achievements have been scattered and few.

There was a time a year or so ago when Hamilton awoke to the realization that the college was suffering in its athletic program from most inadequate gymnasium facilities. A suden burst of interest on the part of the students started a fund for a new structure, and presented the issue to alumni and trustees alike. We remind you that it was through the efforts of LIFE that the issue was focussed and brought to a climax. Though the results of our campaign are not as yet apparent, we are not talking in vague generalities when we say that, due in large part to last year's campaign, the gymnasium situation may soon be remedied.

It is questionable to some if the hectic campaign against the Hill fraternity rushing system, inaugurated by LIFE this past semester, was productive of results. We realize that the old system was retained intact, and that the Interfraternity Council was put to no end of trouble to investigate the allegations and facts revealed in these columns. No doubt this group resents our interference with its placid inertia. To some the investigation was wasted time. To us, it was a successful attempt at examining a weak spot in the Hamilton fraternity melee.

There are, we have known too well in the past few months, a group of intense "liberals" and "progressives" on the campus, who regard the incumbents of the editorial posts as ultra-conservative, pro-administration, and entirely unamenable to change. To them, and the organizations which represent them, we retort that it has been our idea that more can be accomplished on the Hamilton campus by a process of cooperation with the powers-that-be, than by a process of bickering and heckling. If a change in the gymnasium situation is brought about, a campaign engineered solely by cooperative means, we feel we have won our point.

We have made many mistakes in judgment, and are quick to admit them. Most flagrant, perhaps, has been the seeming irregularity with which the paper has been printed this semester. Some self-justification must be made on this score. The reason has been not, we insist, a mercenary one on the part of the editors. Rather, because of the meagreness of subscription returns, and the uncertainty which has surrounded the financial end of the paper all year, the deletion of a few issues has seemed imperative; two only have been skipped.

That is our record: we stand by it. It could have been considerably better, and conceivably worse. In selecting Messrs. Phelps and Smith as our successors, we have committed our last act. Whether it be an achievement on our part, or merely another mistake in judgment, only their record in turn will tell.

HATS OFF TO WALLY

The Hamilton College Choir has returned from another successful New York trip, but in all the rush the name of the one man who makes these trips possible, probably more than anyone else, is forgotten. For some ten years now Wally Johnson '15 has acted as graduate manager of the Choir and has made all arrangements for the New York trips. It has been his job to arrange concerts, to consult train and bus schedules, to see that everyone was on the train when he was supposed to be, to hand out food money and make plans for housing the Choir of some fifty men besides caring for the hundred and one small details about which we know nothing. It is a job that not one in a million would take and our hats are off to Wally Johnson for his fine work in making these annual Choir trips possible.

RE THE STUDENT UNION

Despite its alleged conservatism, the editors of LIFE, having had an opportunity to attend the regional conference of the American Student Union here this past week-end, wish publicly to go on record as endorsing the principles of the Student Union platform. It is our opinion that for such a progressive group to convene at Hamilton gives a manifestation that some part of the student body, at least, is mentally awake; that these students are not only willing to think, but to carry their convictions into tangible activity.

With the American Student Union we are in perfect accord! with the Hamilton chapter we take decisive issue. Those in this group have wondered why LIFE did not give them its enthusiastic backing in its activities on the Hill. Let us venture a reason.

At the concluding session of the Student Union on Sunday morning, one of the more active of the Hamilton members was granted the floor to report on the success of the work of the local chapter. His report, minus his glowing words, was in effect as follows. The Student League, predecessor of the Union, upon discovering the woeful inadequacy of the library lighting system, took the liberty of having an engineer investigate the situation. Due solely to the League's efforts, went his record, the situation was remedied during the Christmas recess. He concluded with the venture that with this tangible realization of its campaign, the early antipathy to the Student League and Union had in large part died out.

Certainly this report to the conference by the Hamilton delegate gave but a partial picture, to say the least. It is true enough that the League managed so to draw attention to the question that the Committee on Undergraduate Activities, largely through the initiative of the dean of the college, brought about a complete overhauling of the lighting system; but there the report's truth ends.

The conference was given to believe that by this bold step the Hamilton chapter had made a step forward in intrenching itself within the college. Exactly the opposite occurred by The Student League, in its high-handed manner, first, of summoning an engineer without the knowledge of the administration, and then, of publishing the results before the original letters were even mailed to the college officials, did itself more harm on the campus than good.

We would like to call to the minds of the Hamilton chapter the fact that this very library investigation brought about an internal split in the ranks of the League, a split which caused several of the more prominent and interested members to drop active membership.

We do not intend to heckle the Student Union at Hamilton. With its national platform firmly in mind, and adopting the methods recommended by the national organization, the Union can accomplish much at Hamilton. But until the time that it can learn to adopt a cooperative attitude, and think out its campaigns before its embarks on them, it can not hope to win sufficient respect on the campus to enable it to carry out its excellent program.

Week-ends may come and week-ends may pass but none can compare with the one just passed. In a nut-shell, the Sigh Us and the Chi Sighs forgot their other differences and jointly imported a mighty fine bus-load of Wellsian feminity. The American Student Union, embodied in a conference of loyal young Americans, attempted to kindle the fire of peace and liberty, whatever that is, in each other's heart.

Then, of course, the Dekes, Theta Delts, and Lambda Chis gave up a Saturday night in Utica to see what they could fetch to their own stamping grounds. And, as the story goes, there is no place like home.

According to Hamilton's Happy Hill Beauty Commission, composed of "Swashbuckler" Sullivan, chairman, "Romey" Pugh, "Tweezer" Van Alstine, and "Steamboat" Chappell, who took it upon themselves to pass judgment on the varying shades of pulchritude exhibited, the Sigh Us and the Chi Sighs take the cake. About the Dekes, Theta Delts, and Lambda Chis, they couldn't come to terms. And the ASU's, well, they had the destiny of the world in their laps.

* * * * *

Forsooth, another startling anecdote follows in the wake of this glamorous week-end:

It was last Saturday night, well on into the night, to be exact. An emergency call is sent out for DKE's Johnson. Johnson appears on the scene and after a whispered conference with an apparently perplexed underclassman, mounts the stairs.

With deliberate step, he enters one of the dormitories, flashes on the lights, and finds two feminine forms slumbering peacefully in the top "bunks" of two of the double-deckers.

It so happened that, wearied after a hard day's toil at a certain convention, even the Deke "bunks" looked inviting to them. But their dyed-in-the-wool policy of equal rights for women didn't appeal to diplomat Johnson. And so, without further adieu, they took their "nighties" and "scrammed."

* * * * *

Carpe took a bit of a trip Saturday night in the direction of the Student Union Convention in quest of a bit of "dope." He arrived just as a nimble-witted youth was on the firing line answering a barrage of questions. The topic of the hour was a proposed peace strike in April and apparently some of the questioners couldn't fathom how such a demonstration could be called a "strike."

The explanation ran something like this: "A strike is giving up one's work. Your work is studying and going to classes. Therefore, if you give up studying and going to classes on the specified day, you will be striking." That settled that.

* * * * *

But after matters had apparently been straightened out that the group should not attend eleven o'clock classes that day, one of the Hamilton group was a trifle bewildered. He said something to this effect:

"We of Hamilton have a rather queer situation. You see, our classes start on the half hour. What do you suggest? Should we not go to our 10:30 class at all or should we get up and walk out at 11 o'clock?"

This query more or less puzzled the discussion leader. He suggested that the Hamiltonians use their own judgment or else arrange that the classes come on the hour.

Hess, Butcher, and McKinney have done such commendable jobs in getting their men jobs for next year, we suggest that they continue doing so and then as a sideline run a date bureau for house party.

EASTMAN KODAK MAN VISITS HILL SENIORS

Last Thursday, Mr. M. L. Sandell of the Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., visited the Hill. He was here on a scouting strip, to interview college seniors specializing in chemistry. Williams, Burgess, Durkee, Vanderwaart, VanAlstine, Gosling, R. J. Govern, Monacelli, and Kellogg, were interviewed.

Since the War, the Eastman Company has been emphasizing the manufacture of organic chemicals. Today they supply about 75% of the organic chemicals used in the United States.

John Gosling has just been awarded a laboratory assistantship in chemistry at Cornell. He intends to work for his doctor's degree there.

This assistantship is worth $500 a year and tuition. Only ten are awarded each year and these are usually given to men from large schools.

FOUR FRATERNITIES HOLD HILL DANCES

The arrival of a bus-load of Wells girls Saturday afternoon on consignment to the combined forces of the Chi Psi and Psi U. houses marked the start of a series of dances held in various fraternity houses.

The delegates of the A.S.U. convention met after the Saturday evening session for an informal dance at the D. U. house. The Theta Delts, with music furnished by the Utica orchestra of Bing Miller, entertained about twenty girls recruited from the vicinity. The Lambda Chis had about the same number of guests, and danced to the music of the Club Royal band, led by Vic Mario. The Hamilton Glen Lane orchestra presided at the combined Chi Psi-Psi U. party, held at the Psi U. house. The Dekes, with some twenty-five visitors, had the Colgate Serenaders furnish music. As is the custom on the Hill, dancing stopped in all the houses at midnight.

After Chapel tomorrow morning Dennis J. Livadas '36, will make an announcement concerning the drive, which is to be undertaken immediately, to get 400 signatures of Hamilton men for an anti -war petition sponsored by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Last Saturday in the Soper gymnasium the quarter-finals of the interfraternity basketball tournament were run off, and as a result the field has been cut down to four teams who will contest in the semi-finals. In the four games played, the team representing Delta Upsilon defeated Delta Kappa Epsilon, 31-12, Theta Delta Chi brushed by Chi Psi, 22-20. Emerson Literary Society trounced Psi Upsilon, 33-5, and Tau Kappa Epsilon turned in an upset victory over the Neutrals, 20-16.

Each Puff Less Acid

A LIGHT SMOKE

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

For twenty-five years the research staff of The American Tobacco Company has worked steadily to produce a measurably finer cigarette—namely, a cigarette having a minimum of volatile components, with an improved richness of taste—"A LIGHT SMOKE."

We believe that Lucky Strike Cigarettes embody a number of genuinely basic improvements, and that all these improvements combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

SEVENTY DELEGATES AT FIRST ASU CONFERENCE

and it is in the far Pacific that our imperialistic interests lie."

"No," stated Mr. Lash, "I will go neither to Shanghai or the Philippines to defend these interests."

The Executive Secretary then labeled the April 22nd Peace-Strike as an actual dress-rehearsal for student action in case of a declaration of war.

"A strike, not only a knockout blow for the R.O.T.C., will bring to light trustee relationship, and will disclose to us who our enemies will be and who our friends will be when the time comes for us to declare against war," declared the speaker.

Cyril Berger, Field Secretary, commented upon Hearst's influence in gaining membership and support for the A.S.U.

Said Berger, "It has not only been the A.S.U. who has been responsible for renewed student activity on American campuses, but also Hearst's movements in his press."

There were dancing and refreshments at the D.U. house after the night session.

The principal accomplishments of the Sunday session of the A.S.U. conference were the two bills presented and adopted by the delegates. The first of these bills definitely placed the Conference on record as sponsoring the anti-war strike to be held in conjunction with various student organizations all over the country on April 22. The second act declared the Conference in favor of the American Youth Act, now before Congress; The first resolution was introduced by Allan Cantor, Hamilton '38, read in part: "We the people of the first upstate regional conference of the American Student Union appeal to the students of N. Y. State to support the April 22nd strike against war; because the newspapers are blazing imminence of a world combat; because of billion dollar armament appropriations of our government which in no way can be construed as a defensive move; because the War Department is clamping its tentacles around the campuses as indicated by the recent formation of an R.O.T.C. unit at Clarkson Tech; and because of the efforts of legislatures to stifle the peace movement by teachers' and students' loyalty oath bill, we realize that our lives are at stake and a drastic measure such as a peace strike should be undertaken."

The second resolution, presented by Mary Fuller of Skidmore, was in the form of an appeal to the progressive students of America to lend their earnest support to the American Youth Act, and to record this support with their respective Representatives in Congress. This Act provides for retaining and extending the present National Youth Administration.

The up-state New York regional conference of the American Student Union, meeting at Hamilton College, March 14 and 15, addresses itself to the students in the high schools and colleges:

The American Youth Act is now sional hearings will be held in Washington, D. C., March 19, 20 and 21. This Act if passed will before Congress; public Congress-provide:

(1) For needy high school students, financial aid of not less than $15 per month.

(2) For needy college students, employment at not less than $25 per month.

(3) For unemployed youth between the ages of 16 and 25, socially useful jobs at not less than $15 per week.

(4) Democratic administration of funds by local commissions composed of members chosen from youth organizations, trade unions and civic organizations.

"That young people are in need of such aid is undeniable. Many students cannot complete their education due to lack of funds; other youth are denied employment and forced into idleness. The progress of the nation is seriously threatened by the failure to adequately provide for and equip its future citizens.

With the establishment of the National Youth Administration the federal government has recognized this need and its obligation to the young people of the nation. Today, even the inadequate provisions of this measure are in danger of being discontinued.

This conference appeals to all you, to all progressive individuals and groups in the community, to lend their support to the American Youth Act and to record such support with their respective representatives in Congress."

David White '36 spoke on local issues, while Cornell and Syracuse delegates talked on organization and strike preparations. Discussion of these problems were enthusiastically participated in by the representatives.

The accommodations for the large crowd and the social part of the conference were ably handled by the local chapter, under the direction of David Cochran. The success of the conference was so apparent that a second gathering was immediately decided upon by the Regional Committee, to be held at Colgate University some time in October.

Wide interest was evidenced by outsiders in the conference, about thirty visitors being present during the whole session, including faculty members from Skidmore and Hamilton.

JOSEPH LASH UPHOLDS ASU ANTI-WAR STRIKE

is bound to overflow when a war is imminent."

The national secretary is also a student of economics, apparently.

"If," he was asked, " you refuse to fight to uphold and maintain imperialistic interests in the Far East in this, a capitalistic state, what would you do if you were called upon to maintain and uphold interests, imperialistic, but of a proletarian state?"

Lash parried with the statement that in a proletarian state, the distribution is more perfect, and imperialism, that is, the seeking for markets for products unsellable within the state, is not necessary.

Lash, after his numerous contacts with student groups, hopefully pointed out that the American Student Union is growing rapidly. Perhaps next year, Joe will not need to take the last bit of money in the treasury for trainfare.

HAMILTON DEBATE TEAM MEETS ST. ROSE GROUP

two days after he had been inaugurated as President. In their defense of this act they showed that it was the only possible way in which our banks could have remained solvent and credit maintained. The third issue concerned Franklin D. Roosevelt as a man. He was depicted as a fine, upstanding individual who was thrust into the Presidency when the country was confronted by one of the worst crises in its history and it was required that strong action be taken in this emergency. St. Rose College held that Franklin Roosevelt had taken such decisive action and therefore should be elected.

Norman Howard '36 and Gilbert G. Sprague '37 of Hamilton, stressed the unadvisable action taken by the administration in refard to the monetary policy of the country. The inflationary measures of the Roosevelt government were held up to public view as an example of the poor financial policy which we are following under the present leadership. The AAA, CCC, and similar organizations were considered from the moral standpoint, and it was shown that if such policies were continued the people would become used to living on subsidies from the government and that their self-respect and independence would be lost. Such a thing would be inexcusable in a nation in which the people have always been as free and self-supporting as they have in this country. As a result of its unwise monetary policy and the detrimental effects upon our people, the negative held that Franklin D. Roosevelt should not be returned to the office of President.

At the close of the debate the audience was asked to vote on the merits of the debate, rather than the merits of the question. Out of an audience of from 230 to 250 people, as a result of the debate, the views of 38 shifted to favor the re-election of Roosevelt; 22 shifted their opinion to oppose the re-election of Roosevelt, and the views of 25 remained opposed to his re-election. Some of the audience did not vote.

Each speaker was allowed an advance speech of twelve minutes in which to present his or her advance speech and five minutes were allowed for the rebuttal speeches. After the debate a short reception was given the visiting team.

In a short time the golf team will begin practice in the Sage Building for the coming season. With five lettermen returning, the prospects for the year look fairly good. Lead by Captain Richard J. While the device is used primarily by members of the freshman class, the sophomores have also put it to good use in a study of President Roosevelt's radio voice, and one disk contains an accurate imitation of it. Several amusing incidents have also been recorded on the records, such as the loud pealing of the chapel bell in the middle of a reading of John Masefield's poetry.

In place of the handbook, W. Herrick Chapman suggested a new student directory which would give the names, addresses and room numbers of all students together with certain useful information found in the present handbook. The regulation for the three official Hill publications, if such a plan is adopted, would fall to Pi Delta Epsilon as is the case now. The three official publications are to be: Hamilton Life, "The Continental", and the new directory. The editor of the handbook would automatically assume editorship of the directory.
